SOMEBODY PAYS

Did it ever occur to you that it does not make any difference whether a person carries life insurance or not, the loss is paid just the same?

Death means loss and losses must be paid.

If the deceased had insurance, then the insurance company pays. In the other case, the family pays--possibly by the children going without education, forced to join the great army of wage earners.

For this is certain--in some coin or other the loss of that active life is paid for.

The Home Security issues both Ordinary and Industrial Policies, providing legal reserve life insurance upon standard forms. Ask about our Special Preferred Risks, $5,000.00 Contracts.

This is a combination city and county directory. The census of the city was completed August 25th 1933 and the other information was obtained from the 1933 tax records of Beaufort County. The names appear in alphabetical order with, age, address, tax value of real estate, (including personal property, if a merchant) and occupation where shown on the abstract.

The historical sketches were made possible through the courtesy of Congressman Lindsay C. Warren of Washington, N. C., Miss Katherine Blount Harding of Washington, N. C., and Col. Fred A. Olds of Raleigh, N. C.

BEAUFORT COUNTY

Prior to 1696 this region was called Pamticough from the prehistoric Indian tribe found here by the first white settlers. In 1696 it was known as the County of Archdale. In the same year the great County of Bath was created in the place of Archdale, and so remained until 1741, when its ancient name was changed to Beaufort in honor of Henry, Duke of Beaufort, one of the Lords Proprietors.

The old courthouse built in Bath in 1706 had become useless and in 1756 a new one was built, but it had not been paid for and the officials refused to use it until it had been paid for, so court was held at the home of Mr. Thomas Bonner until the debt was removed from the courthouse. Twenty years later the third new courthouse was built at Bath in 1776.

On December 29, 1785 an act was introduced to move the County seat from Bath to Washington and the act specified that a courthouse be built of not less than 40' x 25' and that court be held in the school building until the courthouse was finished.

It is not known exactly when the present courthouse was built, but it is believed it was about the year 1800. No record can be found as to when the clock was placed on the building, but tradition says that the clock was first carried to Bath but never erected there and later brought here. The clock was made by Reeves and Company of New York. The concern went out of business in 1840.

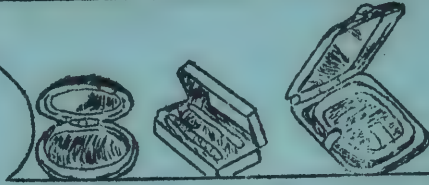

The first Federal Census of the United States was taken in 1790 and Beaufort County showed a population of 5,462, of which 951 were white males over sixteen years of age, 926 white males under sixteen, 1,824 females, 129 free Negroes and 1,632 slaves.

The two largest slave owners given in that Census were Thomas Respass, who owned 76 slaves and John Gray Blount, who owned 74. This was twice as many slaves as were owned by any other individual in the County.

Thomas Bonner was the first Sheriff of Beaufort County. It is interesting to note that his salary was 10 pounds a year to be paid from the state funds for the year 1757 but this was not paid to him until 1760.

It remained for a modern perfumer to seek - and find - a formula for youthful mood! A formula for perfume first - because of the great influence of scent on our mood. Then, building outward from mood, came other formulae...for delicate, subtle, youthful make-up....for creams...and other very practical aids of youthful charm use.

WASHINGTON

The land on which the town of Washington is built is known as the Dudley Patent and is a grant of land from the Lord Proprietors to Christopher Dudley in 1726. It contains 337 acres. In 1727 Dudley transferred the grant to Edward Salter; he in turn to John Worsley. He next conveyed it to Thomas Bonner whose plantation it became. Some years later it became the property of Col. James Bonner.

The settlement out of which grew Washington dates back to 1771 and on Saturday, Nov. 30th 1771, James Bonner, founder of the town, presented a bill to Congress held at Hillsboro for having a town erected on his plantation.

This town was called the Forks of Tar River.

It is uncertain just how soon after General Washington took charge of the Continental Army that Col. Bonner gave his name to the town which he had founded, but it is believed that it was late in 1775 or early in 1776. The first mention we find of the town going by the name of Washington is dated Monday, October 21, 1776. It is an order from the Council of Safety at Halifax, and reads "That Captain John Forrester, Commander of the armed-brig "General Washington now lying at the port of Washington, proceed with all possible haste to Ocrocoke Bar."

The first deed for a lot in the town of Washington was dated Dec. 23, 1776 and is recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Beaufort County in Book IV page 523. It is to be regretted that the bronze tablet commemorating the naming of Washington, which is in our handsome Postoffice is incorrectly marked. The above mentioned record showing on the tablet as page 253, a transposition of the figures.

Washington was incorporated by the General Assembly meeting at Hillsboro on April 13, 1782.

Nathan Keais, Richard Blackledge, John Bonner, James Bonner, Jr., and John Gray Blount were named as the first Commissioners.

It is interesting to note that the act of incorporation provides that each purchaser of a lot in the town must build a house thereon within two years after the expiration of the war with Great Britain of not less than 16' square and "that no wooden chimneys be built and that any now standing to be torn down."

The town was successful from the first and on April 17, 1784, fifty-two lots known as Respass town were added to the original incorporated limits. Union Alley is the dividing line between the lots on Bonner's land and those on the land of Thomas Respass.

There was also an act of the Assembly of 1784 to establish a trading port of Washington "for the speedy decision of merchandise transaction with foreigners and transient persons."

Lately, in the Bicentennial of George Washington we were acknowledged by the National Committee of the Bicentennial as the first town in the United States named for General Washington.

Compliments of Miss Katherine Blount Harding

LUMBER

To be suitable for building operations, lumber should be thoroughly dried and seasoned. Too often the lumber that goes into a house warps or contracts with the result that the structure shows defects in a very short time.

You can depend on the lumber you buy from us being well seasoned and
FREE FROM DEFECTS THAT CAUSE WASTE.

OLDEST CHURCH IN NORTH CAROLINA

St. Thomas Church, Bath, N. C., as it is today.

As early as 1706, lots were bought in Bath Town by "Christopher Gale, Gent", a zealous member of the Church of England, son of the Rev. Miles Gale and near relation of the Dean of York. It is recorded that previous to the erection of St. Thomas Church, "that the people meet each Sunday at his (Gale's) house where a young gentleman is appointed to read prayers and a sermon, they having no minister." Later Gale removed to Edenton or to the Chowan section and rounded out a well spent life.

The lot on which the Church stands was given by Edward Mosely to the vestry and church wardens, October 7th, 1730.

There is a quaint tablet on the interior to the memory of Admiral Palmer, Surveyor general of the province and Lady Palmer, his wife.

Note the tile over entrance; placed there by the builders in 1734, it is a replica of those on the floor and is inscribed "Bath T. 1705. St. Thomas Church 1734."

In the spring of 1905 this tile was removed by persons probably ignorant of its sacred and historic value, taken by them to Washington, N. C. and offered for sale to stranger passing through, Mr. F. A. Emerick, of Oswego, N. Y., having visited the old church a short time before and having observed the tile, he recognized its great historic value in its proper place, therefore, generously obtained it and immediately had it replaced at his own expense. Mr. Joseph Y. Bonner, Senior Warden at that time executed the work in July 1905.

TABLET ERECTED BY THE STATE HISTORICAL COMMISSION AND BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF BEAUFORT COUNTY JUNE 19, 1924 TO COMMEMORATE THE 219TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE INCORPORATION OF THE TOWN.

INSCRIPTION BY STATE HISTORICAL COMMISSION

"Bath, Originally the Indian Town of Pampticough, was settled by White Men About 1690, and Incorporated in 1705. It is the Oldest Town in North Carolina.

"Its First Commissioners Were John Lawson, Joel Martin, and Simon Alderson. Here Was Founded in 1700 the First Public Library in the Colony. ST. THOMAS CHURCH, Built in 1734, is the Oldest Church in the State.

"The General Assembly Met in Bath in 1744 and in 1752."

Congressman Lindsay C. Warren

Address of Honorable Lindsay C. Warren delivered at Bath, June 19th. 1924, on the occasion of the unveiling of the tablet erected by the State Historical Commission to commemorate the 219th. anniversary of the incorporation of the town

" Bath ! What visions of the past imagination conjures up at the sound of that name. In varied procession there passes before us the roaming Indian, the hardy hunter and trapper clad in buckskin shirt and breeches, sedate Quakers, earnest Baptists and Huguenots, grave governors, wise legislators, honest sailor and black handed pirate, Church of England curates in gown and bands, English adventurers, gay knights and fair ladies, and all the numberless men and women who worked, loved and "lived out life's little day", and then vanished into the misty past leaving but the scant records of their lives and labors.

" Careful, reverent hands have gathered up the history and chronicles of the Cape Fear, the Neuse and the Albemarle sections, but only a few facts can be gleaned of the very early history of Bath.

" Raleigh had failed to plant his colony on Roanoke Island, but out of his bitter experience a permanent colony was finally established at Jamestown in 1607, and from that time on there was no cessation to the steady flow of settlers who swept into North Carolina. They came first to the Albemarle section and by 1665 the Lords Proprietors had introduced the first form of representative government in what is now the state.

" Although we proudly boast of our English ancestry, the first settlers to come south of Albemarle Sound were French Protestants. They came about 1690 and settled on Pamlico river, and as the settlement grew in importance, the colonial authorities ordered that a new court be erected in that territory lying between Albemarle Sound and Neuse river. They gave this vast area the name Bath, and bestowed the privilege upon it of sending two members to the Assembly. In 1704, on a bluff overlooking Pamlico river, they selected an ideal site for a town, and on March 8th. 1705, the Third Assembly meeting at Little River incorporated it also under the name of Bath.

"Beginning almost with the very establishment of government on the American continent, Bath has and does play an important role in history. One state historian has recorded that its only claim to fame lies in the fact that it was the first incorporated town. If our early institutions are still dear to us; if we still cherish our traditions; if history is more than the mere recording of dates and events, then Bath's claim is more secure.

"Its incorporators and first board of commissioners were men of birth, refinement, culture and character. The names of all of them are inseparably linked with our early history. John Lawson, Surveyor General to the Crown, historian, traveller and adventurer was the best known. His surveys have stood the test of the ages, his scholarly reports give us an insight of the times, and his explorations opened up new and greater fields for those who were coming to build a Commonwealth. Joel Martin and Simon Anderson, the other two commissioners, were men of power and influence, and have likewise left their impress.

"When Bath was but five years old, we find the Rev. William Gordon, a missionary, writing that it "consists of about 12 houses, being the only town in the whole province. They have a small collection of books for a library, which were carried over by the Reverend Doctor Bray, and some land is laid out for a glebe; in all probability it will be the centre of trade, as having the advantage of a better inlet for shipping and surrounded with most pleasant savannas, very useful for stocks of cattle."

"The library established here by Doctor Bray was the first public library in North Carolina, but as evidence of its lack of appreciation, we find the Assembly several years later passing a bill to better protect it. Bishop Joseph Blount Cheshire is of the opinion that this was the same library later presented to Edenton by Edward Moseley.

"Bath county grew by leaps and bounds and other counties were soon carved from it, and today it may be truly called the mother of counties of the state. But Bath Town did not grow, the settlers preferring to live on their plantations on the river shore.

"On September 22nd, 1711, there occurred the great Indian massacre, when one hundred and thirty settlers residing on the Pamlico alone were horribly butchered. A council of war was held by the Indians on the night before on Indian Island, in Pamlico river just a few miles distant. The destruction and desolation caused by this and other struggles with the Indians was widespread, and Bath town and county were described as "totally wasted and ruined". It was in this massacre that the able and beloved Lawson was cruelly put to death.

"It was a hardy race that made up the early pioneers. All types were represented, but North Carolina was not the haven of the outcasts of the world as has been pictured. Men fleeing from religious intolerance, men fearing the wrath of law for offenses which today would not be criminal, men of distinction and family who desired to be trail blazers in the opening of a new empire, and men merely seeking adventure, composed the lot.

"Set down in an untrod wilderness with practically no form of law over them, is it a wonder that our early ancestors treated lightly their spiritual welfare. If the Church of England had followed the early settlers to their new homes, perhaps a religious environment would have been sooner established, but the Church allowed the colonists to roam in the wilds for forty years before it came to seek them. They had expected their church to follow them but its indifference was appalling. Other denominations entered the field first, and the voice of the first Christian preacher to be raised in North Carolina was not an Episcopalian but a Quaker. The Episcopal Church was not established in the colony until 1701, when under the devout leadership of Governor Walker, vestries and parishes were created and churches erected. St. Thomas Parish was formed by this act, and the building was erected in 1734. It is therefore the oldest church building in North Carolina, and within its walls there has been continuous religious worship.

"The first vestry of St. Thomas Parish was composed of: The Hon. Chas. Eden, Esq., Col. Christopher Gale, Tobias Knight, Esq., Mr. John Porter, Daniel Richardson, Esq., Mr. Thomas Worsley, Captain John Drinkwater, Captain John Clark, Mr. John Adams, Mr. Patrick Maule, Mr. Thos. Harding, Mr. John Lillington.

" Doctor Bray came over as one of the representatives of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Mr. Gordon was probably the first missionary sent over by the Church of England. In 1717, came Ebenezer Taylor. He was old and infirm but was a zealous churchman, and after four years of untiring labor, he met death on Pamlico river caused by exposure in an open boat for ten days and nights. His successor was Thomas Bailey who came in 1725. Bailey was called by the Vestry of St. Thomas "our pious and exemplary minister", while Governor Everard denounced him as a "scandalous drunken man". The next rector at Bath was the notorious John Urmstone, a rascal of the highest order who fled the colony in disgrace. Urmstone sent voluminous reports to England during his ministry here. He quarreled incessantly about his salary, and his drafts were frequently protested. He referred to the colonists as "Ephesian Beasts". He pictured Siberia as a garden spot compared to the Bath section, and he finally asserted that he would prefer to be "Vicar to Bear Garden than Bishop of North Carolina."

" The last of the great Protestant denominations to seek a foothold in North Carolina prior to the Revolution was the Methodist church. The most eminent of this early type of Methodism was Rev. George Whitfield who came as early as 1739. Writing from Bath that year, he said: "I am here, hunting in the woods, these ungospelized wilds for sinners."

" For many years one of the folk lore stories of Bath and its failure to grow has been attributed to an alleged curse placed upon the town by Mr. Whitfield. The story is that he later returned to Bath and was so inhospitably received that in shaking its dust from his feet he predicted it would never prosper. It is a fact that Mr. Whitfield did return to Bath just prior to the Revolution but there is no evidence of lack of cordiality shown him by the people or that he ever made such a statement. The so called "Whitfield Curse" is a mere myth, and is simply one of those charming stories that is generally associated with all old communities.

"Another missionary of the Church of England writing from Bath in 1742, reports that he had baptized 623, that the number of his communicants was 103, and that he was informed that the number of heathen and infidels amounts to 2000 or thereabouts.

"Parts of this same letter, made in the nature of a report, throw a very illuminating light on some of our early forefathers.

For instance: " I do beg the favor of you to inform their Honours with my endeavours to promote goodness, Christianity and the true religion among the inhabitants within my mission, but immorality is arrived to that head among so many, that it requires not only some time but great patience to conquer it; because upon my preaching upon any prevalent and predominant sin, I must be prepared to stand the persecution of those who are guilty of it,"

And again this same Divine reports: " In the meantime I stand the oppression of an inveterate and obstinate Parish, governed by twelve Vestrymen whose only endeavour is to hinder and obstruct the service of God being performed, they themselves never coming to hear the word of God, and dissuading as much as possible others from it and who in a particular manner exercise their malice daily against me, by depriving me of my quietness of mind and the enjoyment of the small salary of Thirty Seven pounds Ten shillings per annum allowed by law."

"Then there was the group of small farmers, who worked hard, played hard and lived hard. One historian records that he had frequently seen them come to Bath, and there remain "drinking rum, punch and other liquors for eight or ten days successively, and after they had committed this excess they would not drink any more until the next frolick". It was not recorded how far apart these "frolicks" were.

"Yet with all their early excesses and desires to be free from restraint, there are abundant expressions of the hospitality and cordiality of the people. They were good livers and liberal givers and none turned from their doors in want.

"The Colonial Assembly met twice in Bath. The first session began on February 25th 1744, and Gabriel Johnston, the governor, was present. No business of great importance was transacted at this session. Isaac Buck, a justice of the peace of Beaufort county was impeached, but was unanimously found not guilty. The Colonial Assembly again met at Bath on April 2nd, 1752, and its session lasted for fifteen days. The Governor's Message asked that: Religion be promoted, vices be suppressed and that a stop be put to the "barbarous and inhuman manner of boxing, so prevalent among common people, which is really shocking to human nature and is an atrocious custom". A bill was passed to properly mark the channel from Octacoke Inlet to Bath, and Mr. Wyriott Ormond, one of the members from Bath, successfully oposed a bill to establish a Post Office in the Province. For years Mr. Ormond was one of the leading men in the Province, and was one of the leading men in the Province, and was a great force and power in the Assembly.

"At this session, ore John Gatlin, while drunk on the street abused one of the members, and was ordered in contempt by the Assembly. After being made to get on his knees and humbly apologize he was dismissed with costs. This is in rather striking contrast with our legislators of today who have acquired little thick hides. The Assembly adjourned without acting on any of the recommendations of the Governor, and the "atrocious custom of boxing" still continued.

"Governor Chas. Eden resided at Bath during a part of his tenure in office. So did Robert Daniel, Deputy Governor. So did Deputy Governor Hyde and Deputy Governor Cary of Cary's Rebellion fame. Cary planned and plotted his revolt in Bath.

"Christopher Gale, Attorney General and the first Chief Justice of North Carolina lived at Bath. He missed death with Lawson by what he described as the "happy sickness" of his wife.

"Tobias Knight, Eden's Secretary of State lived on what is known as the Beasley now the Kugler farm.

"Edward Moseley, whose life is a history of North Carolina for a period of forty years, lived here for many years, and the lot on which St. Thomas' stands was donated by him.

"Matthew Rowan, a member of the Governor's Council, and for whom Rowan county was named was a successful merchant in Bath.

"Stephen Cabarrus, the witty and brilliant Frenchman for whom Cabarrus county was named was a prominent and outstanding resident.

"No history of the town would be complete without mentioning the name of a man who has always been linked with it. In 1718, Edward Teach, or Thach, better known as "Blackbeard", took up his abode in Bath. He had entree in the best society and while here married his thirteenth wife. It was openly charged that both Governor Eden and Tobias Knight, at the time Acting Chief Justice actually shared his illgotten gains. Teach was beheaded near Ocracoke Inlet on November 22nd. 1718 by an expedition sent out from Virginia. On his body was found a letter from his friend Tobias Knight urging him to be up and moving from Bath. There is a legend that the headless body thrice circled the ship before it sank and the place it went down is known as "Teach's Hole". A brick tunnel leading from the home of Tobias Knight to Bath Creek was said to be the rendezvous for the pirate's rich spoils. Perhaps at times Teach sat in historic St. Thomas' and as a salve to his conscience contributed liberally to its alms basin.

"St. Thomas Church is rich in glorious associations. Its tablets and inscriptions hearken back to the beginning of a new nation. Within the church there is an especially quaint tablet in memory of Admiral Palmer and his wife Lady Margaret.

"The Bath Court Record is in a perfect state of preservation and several years ago was deposited by the Board of Commissioners of Beaufort County with the State Historical Commission for safe keeping.

"The famous Marsh House, still occupied, was erected many years prior to the Revolution. Within its walls governors and notables sat at the board and discussed questions of state, and beautiful women gathered there and formed the social life of the colony.

"No arden lover need go beyond the rear of the Marsh House to feel the pangs of a shattered romance. On a stone erected to the memory of a young girl who died of broken heart after the loss of her husband at sea, we find this inscription:

"Here lies the Body of Mrs. Mary Evans who departed this life Jan. 31, 1758, age 18 years.

"Could bloom of youth, could universal love,
Could tears of parting friends to pity move
Relentless Fate, sure Fate had been inclined
To spare a maid for other joys designed.

But since one common death, one common grave
Awaits the youthful nymph, the generous brave;
Since naught on earth but yields to God's decree,
And heavens declared that short man's joy must be,
Let this fair flower, cropt in its freshest bloom,
Teach us that Life's a span, that Death's our doom,
That all our hopes on our Redeemer rest,
Like her with Him to rest, like her with him to be blest."

"From the beginning of Governor Johnston's administration to the Revolution was the golden era of Bath. During that period its vessels went to foreign countries and northern ports. On the banks of the river were great plantations with fine homes of brick and wood. There were many slave owners and the people lived in comfort and some in luxury. Weddings were occasions for great festivities, the feasting and merry making lasting for several days. The women were notable house keepers and clever with the needle and spinning wheel. The men were fond of hunting and riding and athletic sports. But with the Revolution and the removal of the court seat to Washington, the halcyon days of Bath came to an end.

"Would Roanoke Island or Jamestown hold quite the same historic affection if they had grown strong and great? After all, has not the Old Mother Town played such a role that she should not be placed in competition in a bustling world with her offspring? Would not we always prefer to regard this as a hallowed spot?

"So Bath, ancient and venerable, we come today to pay you respectful, reverent and honorable homage, to rekindle the fires of filial love, to reawaken our appreciation of the part that you have played, to say to you that this consecrated ground should be a state shrine and a Mecca for those who love North Carolina and its history.

"On your 219th birthday, North Carolina salutes you.

"Official recognition, ladies and gentlemen, is now given to this historic spot. The State, through its State Historical Commission and the Board of Commissioners for the County of Beaufort, has presented this tablet. The handsome boulder is the gift of Mr. W. T. Ragland of Raleigh. Mention should be made of the interest of T. Harvey Myers of Washington, Mr. J. S. Cox of Raleigh and Mr. J. F. Tyer of Bath. The children of Beaufort county contributed liberally.

"Within my memory Beaufort county has had two historians. The late R. T. Bonner of Aurora was a veritable storehouse of historical knowledge. His valuable collections are carefully preserved by his faithful daughter. The other is Miss Lida T. Rodman of Washington. A large part of her busy life has been spent in gathering up the history of her section and state. She has been indefatigable in her research. A student of brilliant mind, she has delved deep into the recesses and brought to light much of our early history. This occasion is the culmination of several years of great interest and hard work on her part.

"To Mrs. T. A. Brooks, one of the Town Commissioners of Bath, much credit is due. A quiet, modest lady imbued with a never quitting spirit, she has been unfailing in the promotion and success of this day.

To that Prince of Gentlemen, Col. Fred A. Olds of Raleigh, I can only again voice the love and esteem that all of North Carolina has for him.

"And now, Mr. Mayor and members of the Board of Commissioners of Bath, upon behalf of the donors, I present and entrust to your keeping this tablet and marker.

"May it keep alive the memory of a sturdy race who crossed trackless seas, who blazed the wilderness, who endured hardships and privations and who built a civilization. They succeeded because back of their hard exteriors there was force, determination and character".

It remained for a modern perfumer to seek - and find - a formula for youthful mood! A formula for perfume first - because of the great influence of scent on our mood. Then, building outward from mood, came other formulae...for delicate, subtle, youthful make-up....for creams...and other very practical aids of youthful charm us.

LUMBER

To be suitable for building operations, lumber should be thoroughly dried and seasoned. Too often the lumber that goes into a house warps or contracts with the result that the structure shows defects in a very short time.

You can depend on the lumber you buy from us being well seasoned and FREE FROM DEFECTS THAT CAUSE WASTE.

TAKE THESE STEPS
